Come As You Are, Leave As A Champion

Mrs Cartwright's Message

We launched our "Reading Buddes" last week, with great success. Our eldest children showed amazing patience, kindness and consideration when reading to our youngest children. The whole school became a buzz of reading buddy excitement and the feedback has been extremely positive - so why are we doing this?

Research tells us that time spent reading from a very early age leads to academic achievement by the end of KS2 and beyond. We want to provide the best opportunities for our children to become successful in their lives.

Our main focus is to develop the comprehension and fluency and to bring a love of reading back to the centre of our reading curriculum.

How can you help?

Read, read, read.

Take every opportunity to expose children to words - bedtime reading, reading signs, reading posters, comics, newspapers, recipes. Show your child/ren that reading gives us super powers!

Please look out for invites to our phonics "Learn with Me" sessions and an introduction to Whole Class reading.

Now, where's my book? I'm currently reading The Long Walk to Freedom by Nelson Mandela. What are you reading at the moment?

JOKE OF THE WEEK

What is a scarecrow's favourite fruit?

Straw-berries!!

The journey we are on...

our STORY
here

Over the academic year, we will update you on the school improvement priorities we are working on and the reason for them. We are starting with the foundation of excellent learning - READING.

Excellent readers become excellent learners and at Langdale, we want to make sure that we develop excellence in reading.

We will be developing our reading areas around the school, making our classroom libraries a space to become lost in a book, developing reading nooks to find peace and tranquility and immerse ourselves in a book, creating a non-fiction library in our link corridor where children can access factual texts to support their learning in history, science, RE, art and many more.

We value your support with reading - keep up the great work in promoting a love of reading at home.
